24 April 2016

Fifth Sunday of Easter

Jesus says, "I give you a new commandment: Love one another - as I have loved you..."

An incident from the life of Blessed Mother Teresa illustrates this new way of love: Once a journalist accompanied her as she made her rounds, caring for the dying. One of the men she attended to had a wound that oozed decay and gave off a horrific odor. Mother Teresa calmly washed the wound, all the while speaking softly and lovingly to the man.

After Mother Teresa finished and they were walking away, the journalist said to her, "I wouldn't do that for all the gold in the world" to which Mother Teresa replied, "Neither would I."

She did it for something - actually someone - worth more than all the world's gold. Her strength and love came from the time she spent before Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament - an hour or more each day. As we celebrate the reception of First Holy Communion by our Second Graders, I would challenge you to consider the centrality of the Eucharist and God's love in your life.

You and I are not Blessed Mother Teresa - but Jesus calls us to a similar love. One of my friends is caring for his elderly father. His dad always said that, more than anything else, he feared two things as he grew older: dementia and incontinence. Now, both of those afflictions have befallen him. His children, including my friend, take turns caring for their dad, one or two days a week. It's hard, thankless and emotionally draining to care for our parents and elderly friends and relatives.

"I give you a new commandment: Love one another - as I have loved you."

Easier said than done.

Have a blessed week!

Fr. Brad Pelzel
